Protect Your Truck and Your Wallet

Did you know that if your vehicle is stolen or declared a total loss, you may still be responsible for paying off a portion of the vehicle finance contract?

Many people owe more on their finance contract than their insurance company will pay in the event of total loss. GAP is an amendment to a vehicle finance contract that waives a portion or all of what you owe on the finance contract after an insurance settlement is paid for the total loss of a vehicle. GAP will also pay for your insurance deductible (where permitted by state).

Always be Prepared

You may think it won't happen to you, but the theft or total loss of a vehicle can take you by surprise. The surprise can be twice as unpleasant if your primary insurance carrier's settlement is less than the amount needed to pay off your finance contract's outstanding balance.

Graph is for informational purposes only. There may be portions of the finance contract for which you remain responsible. See your GAP Program - Deficiency Waiver Agreement for details. GAP/GAPPlus protection may not be available in all states. Please contact your dealer for details.

GAPPlus Coverage

What is GAPPlus?

GAPPlus provides both GAP coverage and an additional benefit that pays up to $10,000 or 10% of the original vehicle price for a Class 8 truck—and up to $5,000 or 10% of the original vehicle price for a Class 3-7 truck. This money may be used for:

- The down payment on a new truck

How does GAPPlus Work?

Once you have selected a replacement vehicle from your dealer, a copy of the contract, dealer specifications and a bill of sale are sent to the claims department. A check will be sent to the dealership and can be used for any of the items listed above.

What Coverage Terms Apply?

You are covered for up to 72 months with in-contract financing.

What Payment Options are Available?

- Included in finance contract at the time of purchase
